Board of Commissioners: .

GENTLEMEN: — In consequence of the GENTLEMEN:— In consequence of the action of the Board at their last meeting, which declared that Mr. Wm. Mitchell did not reside in the precinct to which he had been appointed as surveyor, I am at a loss to know who is to be held responsible for the care and maintenance of that portion of the G., C. & P. road in the vicinity of the W., W. L. & Bethany turnpike. As I understand the late action of the Board, they have decided that the authority of the surveyor does not extend to the Bethany pike, and I would respectfully ask any pike, and I would respectfully ask whether or not a portion of the general appropiation is to be applied to that purpose.

whether or special to that purpose.

W. C. Smith, C. E.
The matter was discussed at some length, the solution of the difficulty being arrived at by the motion of Mr. Atkiuson, conferring the same power on the newly appointed road surveyor as heretofore exercised by his predecisaor.

Mr. Terrill called the attention of the Board to the fact that the assessor for the country district had not listed all the dogs in his district according to the provisions of a recent act of the Legislature. He stated that the assessor had completed a great deal of his work before he knew that he was required to assess all dogs. It was moved that the assessor be required to comply with the law, without extra compensation for assessing the degs.

At 12:15 o'clock this morning a single alarm of fire was struck from box 42, cor-ner Twenty-second and Mainstreets The alarm was followed in a very few minutes by a general alarm, which called out all the engines and hose companies in the city. The fire was found to be in the large furniture factory of Metiner, Schelhase & Co., on Water atreet and Paper Mill Alley, the flames atreet and Paper Mill Alley, the flames first appearing in the varnish room in the third story of the building. The contents of this room being of a highly inflammable and combustible nature the progress of the flames was of course very rapid, and they quickly communicated to other rooms and the roof of the building, finding at each step "fuel ready for them to devour," in the dry, well seasoned lumber, the light wood of which the furniture was made, the lumber with which the building was filled, and the paints oils and chemicals used in the dressing and painting of the various articles of furniture. All these, we say, seemed but to feed the advancing flames, and by the time the several engines arrived ow the time the several engines arrived began to play upon the fire, it had mpossible by the most experienced fire-nen on the grounds, so the efforts of the nen were directed to the saving of the loardyard adjoining, and the dwellings in the vicinity.

The heat at this time was intense and it was with much pain that firemen stood in conturous positions and played upon the

The buildings burned comisted of two large brick structures, the larger of which was three stories high, and the smaller two stories. In the three story building were the varnish and paint rooms, the fin-ishing rooms, store rooms, manufacturing rooms, offices, &c., while in the smaller building was the machinery and motive power of the concern.

The flames were discovered in the third

The flames were discovered in the third story of the larger building in the northwest corner, which was used as a varnish room. Thence the flames rapidly extended in every direction, and in a very short time the whole building was enveloped by the fire, quickly communicating to the smaller building. As we have already said the firemen soon saw the hopelessness of attempting to save the furniture factory, and gave their exclusive attention to the saving of the lumber yard on the north and the dwellings on the east and south. In this they succeeded very well, and not a single building was very well, and not a single building was destroyed, although the roofs of several were ignited at different times, and the were ignited at different times, and the lumber yard was more than once in flames in different places. The repeated slarms and the lurid glare upon the heavens had attracted large numbers of people to the scene of the conflagration, and by the time the fire had acquired full headway hundreds of persons stood upon the river bank, and enjoyed the splendid spectacle. The flames rose high and higher over the doomed building, and lit up the lower part of the city, the Ohio shore and the southern part of the laland with more than noonday brilliancy.

The buildings burned belong to Metzner chelhase & Co., who began the manufac ture of furniture in them in the fall o 1878, on a large scale, and have been steadily increasing their facilities 1878, on a large scale, and have been steadily increasing their facilities every since, and this Spring contemplated the erection of another building, in connection with the two burned last night. The factory as it stood was the largest in this State and there were but few larger in the West. The buildings were full of all material, tools, patterns, &c., necessary to the successful carrying on of the business and all were in first class condition. Besides these there was an immense quantity of new furniture which had been prepared with reference to a large serior. prepared with reference to a large spring trade. All of this was destroyed together with the tools, machinery, and in short everything in the factory, the owners being unable to rescue anything. The loss is roughly estimated at from $60,000 to $75,000.

Jpon the buildings and contents is from $15,000 to $16,000, and placed as follows: $1,000 in the Home, of Columbus, and $5,000 in various Pittsburgh companies, in policies of $1,000 each. The German ef this city has $8,000, $1,000 of which is in that ihiseity has $5,000, $1,000 of which is in that company and the other $7,000 placed in the Ætna, Franklin, and Peabody of this city, and the Fire Association of Philadelphia. J. M. Doddridge also has $1,500 in the Hartford, of Hartford, Conn. On the himber yard there was an insurance of $0,000 placed mostly in Pittsburgh companies, but the loss to the yard will be comparatively small.

At three o'clock this morning the fire was still burning in the building, but is under control and no further danger is to be apprehended.
